

The most effective means of combating global challenges is through educating the young.